

Mitra UK Whistleblower

Scope and Overview		This policy describes the process for employees to disclose any malpractice or misconduct that they may become aware of and provide protection for the employee or employees who report the allegations.
Policy Measurement/Goal		– 100% adherence to policy – Positive leadership to provide Mitra employees with a safe and supportive environment to work in.
Definitions	Company	Mitra innovation and associate companies
	Employee	Any employee whether working for Mitra or as a contractor.
Responsibility	UK HR lead	Shall be responsible to take required decisions in relation to any complaint or report regards to working malpractice.
Guidelines
1.1	This policy is applicable to all employees and contract staff working for Mitra. This also includes any suppliers or customers.
1.2	At all times this policy will be used in the best interests of the company and not to seek redress on any personal issue or gaining personal advantage.
1.3	Any issue raised with genuine concern and in good faith will be investigated. Employees will be supported in this action and there will be no comeback to the employee.
1.4	Harassment or bullying of any type will not be tolerated and any such action will be considered a breach of the Harassment and Bullying policy and will be treated as a serious disciplinary matter.
1.5	Anyone who maliciously discloses false information will be subject to disciplinary action. All employees and contract staff are encouraged where they suspect any wrongdoing in the workplace to raise in confidence, and with confidence, with the most appropriate person
Procedure
2.1	All employees are encouraged to report any wrongdoing or any act they feel falls below the standard that is expected across Mitra. The report should be made in good faith and without any expectation of personal gain.
2.2	If the employee does not have the confidence or is not comfortable raising the issue with their line manager, then either the best placed person or a member of the HR team should be approached.

2.3	An employee who discloses any malpractice or misconduct would usually be expected to identify themselves and not remain anonymous. Concerns raised anonymously can be less credible and certainly more difficult to investigate.

Types of Malpractice
3.1	• Disclosure of sensitive or in confidence material to third parties without authority • - Malpractice in maintaining financial accounts, including falsification of documents • - Endangering the safety of a colleague/s • Aiding a criminal offence • Breach of the standards of professional business conduct • Damage to company property and/or assets • Non ethical behavior • Theft • Deliberate concealment of the above The list above is only an example of the types of activities that an employee may feel needs to be addressed if it falls below expected standards.
Investigation
4.1	Once an allegation of malpractice or misconduct is made, an investigation will commence. The investigation will be conducted by an independent party that has no personal gain from the outcome of the allegation.
4.2	Once the investigation is complete, an appropriate company representative will inform the employee who raised the issue of the outcome. This will include what lessons have been learnt, actions to resolve as well as any changes required to prevent a reoccurrence.
4.3	Mitra will have a target resolution period of 1 month from receipt of the allegation.
Disciplinary action
5.1	If the allegation of malpractice or misconduct is substantiated, appropriate disciplinary action will be taken against the individual/s. In extreme cases this may result in termination of employment.
5.2	In the unlikely event that an allegation of malpractice or misconduct has been made maliciously, disciplinary action will be taken against the whistleblower which may result in termination of employment
Safeguards

6.1	Mitra will treat all disclosures with utmost confidence and sensitively. Every effort will be made to protect the anonymity of the person making the allegation. However, there may be a need under certain circumstances, and to assist with the case, the identity of the whistleblower may need to be revealed. This will only be with the consent of the employee. HR will maintain a record of all whistleblowing incidents and this will be reported on periodically.
Policy output – Investigation on the concern raised and appropriate action to resolve
Policy records and monitoring – Mitra will maintain a record of any whistleblowing incidents and this will be reviewed annual
